> Col. Richardson -This gentlemen has just returned to Washington, after a long and laborious canvass for Governor in Illinois. He reports that the Democracy will triumph in that noble State, the home of the lion-hearted Douglas and of himself, by an unprecedented majority. The abolitionists have exerted all their strength to crush these two faithful champions of the Constitution in Illinois, but they have signally failed. If they had succeeded in their diabolical efforts, we suppose that Southern Know Nothings would have thrown up their caps in exultation and joy, just as they did two years ago, when their Black Republican allies were sweeping the North in the Congressional elections. And when Southern Know Nothings thus rejoice over the triumph of abolitionists and the defeat of the true friends of the Union, we are expected to give them credit for patriotism. We do not believe a word of it, and shall never say any thing like it. Patriotic, indeed! to rejoice at the success of the enemies of our country! We would just as well say that the Hartford Ccaventionists and Blue-Light Federalists of 1812 were patriotic. Not a word of it .- Warrenton
